Construction Project of the Year

Open to industrials, construction companies, energy organizations and all other project owners that have completed an energy-focused project since January 2019.

This category is about excellence in project execution and management. Eligible companies will demonstrate their capacity to deliver a construction or infrastructure project in any part of the energy arena, including electricity generation, power transmission lines and distribution facilities, pipelines, storage facilities, refining, biofuels, offshore oil, or renewable energy.

Entries should illustrate the project's unique innovation in its approach and all-around excellence in implementation. Judges will look for a project owner that identified a critical need or opportunity, quickly moved to propose and finance new facilities, dealt with special or daunting political, regulatory, technological and/or landowner issues before and during construction, and brought the project online with fiscal responsibility.

Judges will consider projects completed between January 2019 and September 2020.

Samples of photos, videos or other imagery are encouraged but not required.

The judging criteria glossary provides suggested content for the criteria below.
