

S&P GLOBAL PLATTS GLOBAL ENERGY AWARDS

Emerging Technology of the Year Award Nomination Form

Emerging Technology of the Year

This award is open to organizations who are developing a specific technology or solution that is not yet commercially available.

Solutions that are generating revenue or commercially available should apply under Commercial Technology.

The race to bring fuel technologies to maturity and mass-market penetration is fierce, but first movers deserve proper recognition.

This award will focus on the research and development, ingenuity and commercialization potential of new technologies, before their state of deployment. Examples might include technologies focused on renewable energy, energy storage, blockchain application, transforming waste into revenue streams, advanced propulsion systems or electric/hybrid transport.

Judges will consider any technology launched or patented since January 2018; and not yet in full-scale, commercial operation. Technologies operating in test facilities or initial phases will be considered, provided they have been technologically proven.
