S&P Global Platts

Infrastructure Summit 2020

May 18-20, 2020 | Washington, DC

Infrastructure investment is a key challenge facing the United States, and offers vast new opportunities for rebuilding and transforming the country.

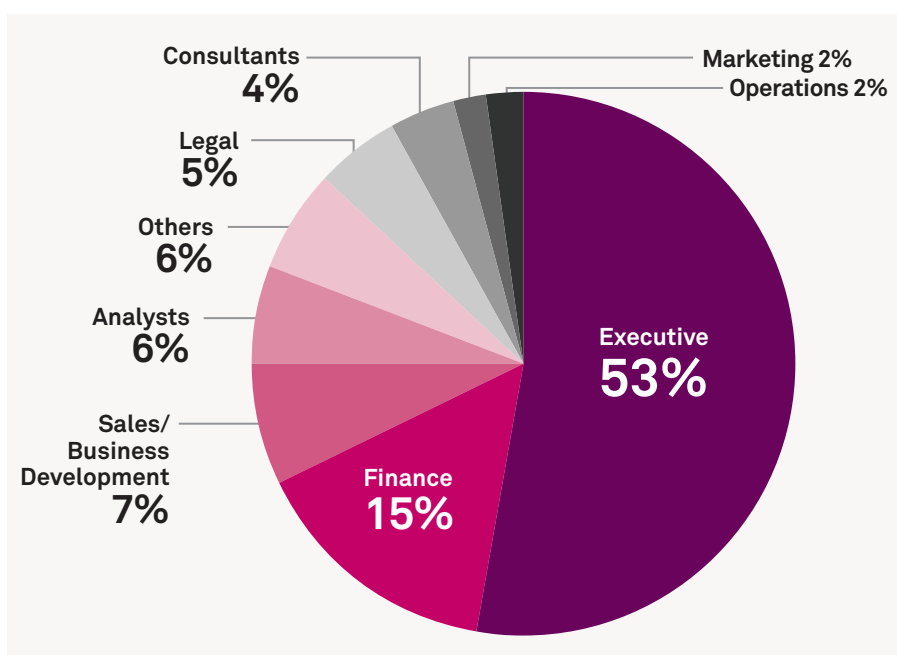

This important new event from S&P Global Platts brings together the leading players involved in infrastructure, from the public and private sectors, finance, investments, government, and industry.

This event meets in Washington DC, and includes perspectives from federal and state governments, and private companies across a wide range of industries. We will build on the experience and expertise of S&P Global Platts in energy and power finance, as well as S&P Global Ratings, which includes a global infrastructure practice, and the S&P Global Infrastructure Index.

Some of the key areas we will cover:

- Electric power generation and transmission
- Renewable energy growth and integration into the grid
- Midstream energy including pipelines, refining, and LNG
- Transportation including ports and highways
- Social investment including hospitals and government buildings
- Utilities including electricity, water and natural gas
